COLUMBIA COLLEGE PRE-APPROVAL FOR A COURSE TAKEN AT ANOTHER U.S. INSTITUTION

Deadline for Submission: Last Day of Final Exams in the term preceding the term in which the course is offered

Taking Summer Courses Elsewhere in the U.S.
Permission to take classes outside of Columbia in the U.S. is normally given ONLY for the following reasons:

1. You have fallen behind in credits (see the chart below)
2. You must have the course as a prerequisite for a course that must be taken in the fall in order to graduate on time
3. You plan to take a language course
4. You have been suspended and must pass courses at another institution before returning to Columbia

Courses Must Meet the Following Criteria

- They must be offered by and taken at an accredited four-year institution. Exceptions may be reviewed on a case-by-case basis.
- A one-term course must meet for a minimum of 30 face-to-face contact (classroom, lab) hours for a 3-point class; a two-term course must meet for a minimum of 60 hours. Proof of the hours must be submitted.
- If the course is taken at an institution on the quarter-system, the points will be calculated at approx. 2/3 of the total points granted by that institution.
- All instruction in the classes must be face-to-face, in-person in a classroom setting. No courses taught entirely or partially online will be accepted for credit. Online courses are not acceptable. No exceptions will be made.
- The subject of the course must be one taught at Columbia University’s Faculty of Arts and Sciences or SEAS and be a course for which a Columbia College student could earn credit toward the degree.
- The subject matter cannot have been covered in a previous class. The student must also be made aware that the outside credit will be removed if they take a duplicative course after the fact.
- Students who are petitioning to take a course to make up for a point deficit may only petition to take courses outside of Columbia University if they meet the “low point’s threshold” as indicated above.
- Students taking classes outside Columbia University to make up a credit deficit may only transfer back the needed credits to reach the “normal progress to degree” threshold above.
- The course must be passed with a grade of C- or better. Neither P/F nor P/D/F grading options are acceptable.
- Credit will be transferred as general degree credit, unrelated to any specific requirements unless departmental approval is received before enrollment.
- Credits toward the major or concentration are granted fully at the discretion of the department.
- If the course will be used to meet a major or concentration requirement but is taught in a different department, students must obtain the approval of both academic departments.
- Students may take no more than 8 points in any Summer Session or in overlapping periods, and a maximum of 16 points for the summer.
- Normally, students on medical or voluntary leave are not permitted to receive credit toward the degree.
- All language courses at introductory or intermediate levels can only be approved conditionally, pending the successful completion of the departmental placement test or successful completion of a higher level language course. It is the student’s responsibility to contact the department for testing. If the student chooses not to continue in that language or take the placement exam, no credit will be granted for the outside course.
- No credit is given for professional courses (i.e. journalism, education, law, etc.).
• Transfer students may not use more than 64 total credits outside of Columbia College toward their degree, including summer courses.
• Students who plan to study abroad during the summer must see an adviser in the Office of Global Programs. This form is not intended for approval for courses taken outside of the U.S. Those must be approved by the Office of Global Programs.
• Credit will be recorded upon receipt of an official transcript sent by the institution directly to the Berick Center for Student Advising.

Taking Summer Courses at Columbia University

Columbia College students do not need special permission to take courses in Columbia University Summer Sessions. Normally, Columbia students who are on medical or voluntary leave cannot take courses at Columbia or elsewhere while on leave. Students planning to take courses for their major or concentration must consult with their departmental adviser prior to enrolling in the course. Please note that no credit is given for professional courses (i.e. journalism, law, education, etc.).
